SAY ANYTHING

ARTIST PHILIPPE PARRENO HAS SPENT A CAREER REDEFINING THE WORD "MULTIMEDIA." HERE, IN FRONT OF HIS LIGHTED MARQUEE INSTALLATION AT THE GUGGENHEIM'S "ANYSPEACEWHATEVER" SHOW, HE REFLECTS ON WORLD EVENTS THAT OCCURRED ON OCTOBER 22, 2008, THE DAY OF THIS SHOOT

In the U.K., the Rochdale Metropolitan Borough Council held its regulatory committee. Paris, France: the ESCP-EAP organizes information meetings at six p.m. on the Paris campus. Miami, U.S.A.: volunteers held a large American flag as they prepare for a rally for presidential hopeful Barack Obama. Sriharikota, India: a trail of smoke was seen in the sky soon after the launch of Chandrayaan-1, India's maiden lunar mission at the Satish Dhawan Space Centre. Singapore: a guide walked in a room filled with 600 movement sensors at a gallery, part of the city-state's newly opened Fusionopolis. Bali, Indonesia: competitors faced off in the distance paragliding event during the first-ever Asian Beach Games. Bangkok, Thailand: Buddhist monks looked on during a ceremony to remember Thai King Chulalongkorn, who is credited with opening up Thailand to Western ideas and culture. Philippe Parreno
